Spanish FAQs

"Spanish FAQs" is the new blog of Iberika Sprachschule to solve all the problems and questions that our students and other learners of Spanish around the world might have. We want to share with you small tricks and tipps about grammar, culture or any kind of information that might be useful for you.

In order to do that, we will have a weekly post that will cover a topic on levels A1-B2. Besides, in our section "Hit of the Week", we will share an idiom or any type of expressions that we might find interesting and funny for the students of the Spanish language.

But we don't focus only on the students! We will give some ideas for teachers to prepare lessons, about new materials, conferences… all in our section "For Teachers".

We encourage you to participate in our blog through our sections "Ask me anything" and "Submit". You could send us your questions and we will try to solve them in a post, and you will be able to add the comments you might have on our posts or any other things that you find relevant.

To make the browsing easier, you will find tags at the end of every post. These tags will get you to the different levels (A1-B2) or to the different sections of the blog.
